Q&A With Jesus
Fossil Fuels

Dear Yeshua,

Sunday, 2 April 2023, 7:10AM

I received an email this morning from (CB59). It confirms Letter 919a, which I had sent out via email yesterday afternoon. Here is an edited copy of the email from (CB59):

(...), this (email of Letter 919a) is very timely since (...), (...) and I were just discussing it the same day you wrote this letter, about 4 hours later. These types of alignments are one way we can justify our beliefs in God/Jesus based on actual data/facts (unless we are to believe extreme coincidences happen all the time - although statistically highly improbable).

The Scripture you listed says we need to judge prophecy and I feel yours has now been judged and verified. As in many times past, we seem to be given similar info in close proximity of time/space.

It may actually be (...) who got the prophecy verification as I believe he started the conversation. Not a surprise as he has similar gifts as me in the spiritual sense. We were discussing the old notion of "fossil fuels" where dinosaurs, plants and animal decaying matter create oil/hydrocarbons (unsure how that would happen in reality especially with the massive amounts of hydrocarbons we have extracted).

Actual scientific methods be damned when a theory is pushed to brainwash the masses who don't reflect on the actual workings of a theoretical model (Darwinism is another excellent case study). Even scientists can fall into the trap with enough peer pressure or early training in public schools or as as (...) says with "gradual indoctrination" being the meaning of graduation (who am I to argue, it sounds about right).

It is not surprising methane and natural gas have close chemical structures (petroleum being more complex and containing impurities).

As an aside, after many years of studying geology, I believe oil is renewed by the planet under high temperature and pressure. And I actually studied geology in high school (Uncle (...) also worked in geology, although he was trained as a chemical engineer).

It does not seem like a stretch that a planet or moon which contains carbon and hydrogen could easily bond hydrocarbons. (...) had brought up Titan, which has methane and I said I doubt there were ever dinosaurs there (or other biomatter). It actually has flowing methane and ethane, which I did not know. NASA has cool info on Titan.

Years ago I read about oil wells that had been depleted resupplying over time. I also read an article about Russia drilling oil wells deep below the crust where any biomatter is. I am just assuming the Earth is creating more (abiotic theory) but it is possible there are larger deposits deep underground as with water reservoirs.

In WW2, the NAZI's synthesized gas/oil for their war machine, at least until they "acquired" the USSR's oil fields.

I just searched and found some info on the German production and saw that Apartheid South Africa also started a company that did this due to their (not) being able to import oil easily. It also talks of the abiotic formation theory. They make the cardinal mistake of saying "fossil fuels" but otherwise a good read.

Thank You Jesus for this confirmation of Your Word.
