

Letter 134
The Divine Council
2012-07-30

Dear Dan,

I remember that one of the last topics of discussion between us over a meal was The Divine Council. And, I remember that you had downloaded some data from Dr. Mike Heiser's site, and you seemed pretty interested in studying the matter further.

The other night as I was sitting in my chair watching TV, the Lord began to explain to me how that much of what I had been resisting at (G6) had come from enemy spirits who had once been part of that council. That is why I felt, at least since the beginning of 2010, that I was on trial. I remember telling you at our first meeting that I considered (G6) to be a prison. I still ask the Lord to attribute you're visiting me as one who was visiting a Prisoner in His Name.

That is also why, when the Manager (P7) would call me into his office to discuss various matters of dispute, it would be arranged very much like a trial, with evidence, testimony (hearsay from absent accusers), a verdict, and a sentence (no iPods, etc.).

And it is also why the Holy Spirit led me to call on the Lord Jesus for legal representation. Now, as I reflect on all that, I have come to the conclusion that I need to ask Jesus for everything. If He chooses to delegate my requests to lower officials, human or otherwise, no problem.

But, as a Christian, I report to Him first.

Because of this, and what Scripture says, I cannot find any directive to approach any spiritual court on my own. I have to do with the King, and Him only. In Him were all the Law and the Prophets* hung.

He who is Love Omnipotent, and demonstrated that Love on the Cross, satisfied all legal claims against my life and person. I do not know if there any obedient Divine Council left. To my knowledge I have only had dealings with the rebels, and that not by my own choice.

But I do know this:

"All authority has been given to Me in heaven and on earth ..."
Matthew 28:18b

* "...on these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets..." Matthew 22:40.

Blessings...

R. C. Theophilus
