

Letter 270
The Snoqualmie Indian Nation
 2014-08-03

Dear Dan,

Below are some quotes from WIKIPEDIA;

“The tribe lost federal recognition in 1953. In October 1999 the Bureau of Indian Affairs once again granted recognition to the Snoqualmie.[2]”

=====

“According to one source, the Snoqualmie Tribe currently has approximately 597 members.[3] Another source puts the membership at approximately 650 members.[4] The government consists of a tribal constitution and elected council.”

=====

The Snoqualmie Casino opened in late 2008. About a year or so before that, just when the ground was being broken for construction, I had a dream.

I dreamed that;

I was in the woods next to where the Casino was going to be built. In front of me was a US Army Tank. But this Tank was unusual in that it was smaller than a normal ABRAMS tank, and was served by only one crewman.

The back hatch was open, allowing me to see inside. The interior was painted the same color, off-white with fluorescent green, as the Armored Personnel Carriers I used to drive when I was serving in my National Guard unit.

I came up to the tank and said “Hello” to the TC (Tank Commander). He greeted me with a big smile, along with a very happy and cheerful demeanor. I have never known a “tanker” not be happy, because all the tankers I have known really love their job.

The Tanker asked me if I had a can of Van de Camp’s Pork ‘N’Beans. I said “No”, but told him I had a can of Nalley’s Chili. He responded with,

“THAT’LL WORK”.

I knew in the dream that I was speaking with just one of a Large Host of Tank Operators, assigned there by the Lord to help in protecting the Snoqualmie Tribe and their Casino as they began their fight toward Nationhood.

End of dream.

It is interesting to note that I had the privilege of serving along side a Snoqualmie Indian who had joined my National Guard unit. He was my fellow Soldier and Friend.

THE VERY FIRST PEOPLE THAT WILL BENEFIT
FROM THE PRAISE TREE ANOINTING
WILL BE THE SNOQUALMIE INDIAN TRIBE.

Blessings...
