The Prayer Of Jesus Against All Hindu Gods
2015-06-20

Dear Dan,

In about 2004 or 2005 I attended for a while a men's prayer breakfast that met at McDonald's in (L23). The men's group was from (U22), and the Pastor and some elders would meet on Tuesday mornings for prayer and Bible study. My friend (CB1) also attended since he went to Church at (U22), and did part-time janitor work at the church building.

At one of the breakfast meetings I remember greeting another Brother who drove bus for the Microsoft bus service. And one Tuesday morning he was commenting on a few things about work, but then he said something that I have always remembered. He said that he was the recipient of abuse from some of the Microsoft employees. These employees had emigrated from India or Pakistan to work at Microsoft.

In the Hindu caste system, which is the predominant religion and philosophy of India and Pakistan, bus drivers as a caste are held in extremely low esteem, and the Brother, a United States citizen, would have to sit and take the spoken or unspoken abusive influence coming from those Microsoft passengers who were so defiled. I can leave to your imagination some of the spiritual ramifications.

In the area that I clean at (G6), there is a corridor that runs north and south, parallel with and next to the freeway. Along the top section of the corridor exterior wall there is a window that runs the length of the wall down to where the corridor turns left, so I have a view of the skyline from that angle. I joke with my angels that it is like our own private observatory, because I can see the sky change from evening to night and then to morning, all in one work shift. I can also see some stars and track the moon, sort of, at certain times of each month on clear nights.

There are some prominent building on the opposite side of the freeway that have Microsoft as their primary lessee, so the Microsoft marquee is prominent at the tops of the buildings that I can see from the windows.

During the course of last year as I would walk along the corridor and see the Microsoft signs, the Lord would remind me of the comment made by the Believing Microsoft bus driver, and how I could tell he was in some anguish over the attitudes from hell he was forced to receive in the course of his work. And throughout 2014 I would remember what the Lord had said about going against Allah and the gods of Hinduism, that they were going to be two of the wars He would fight in 2015.

Allah has since been addressed. Now it is time to speak against all the gods of Hinduism. And the Lord has already provided His Word against these evil spirits through His servant John Paul Jackson, who went home to be with Jesus in February 2015.

The prayer of Jesus against all Hindu gods, spoken by Mr. Jackson, is audio only and will be included in the completion of the audio version of this letter.
