

Letter 408
Angel Beniah
 2015-10-24

Dear Dan,

Thursday 22 October 2015 6AM.

There is a Scripture that I find mysterious. It is in the book of Job, and here is the quote:

"... if He charges His angels with error,..."
 Job 4:18b

I bring this up because in the early days of my getting to know angel Gabe, he would often bring up this micro-fragment of verse and then say that he held the record in Heaven for committing the most errors.

But I could tell that he loved God and was faithful to Jesus and His Word, so I just went with what he said because I had no other base line for comparison. What else could I do other than joke about this (undocumented) part of his resume' from time to time?

Now, more recently, I have been introduced to another angel in like circumstance. Please permit me to explain.

A little while ago I began buying Kindle books by Kris Vallotton. He writes well, is not overly complicated, and expresses a certain amount of kindness in his writings. And I like his approach to the gifts of the Holy Spirit.

The most recent book I purchased, on Kindle, is called Developing a Supernatural Lifestyle (a practical guide to a life of signs, wonders, and miracles). He recounts in one of the chapters how his granddaughter would talk with "invisible people". Here is a quote:

"As Mesha has gotten older (she is eight years old at the writing of this book), these encounters have grown stronger and more profound. The angel that comes to visit her most often told Mesha that "her" name was Beniah. Beniah would often come dressed in different colors like gold, purple, and red, which seemed to mean something to Mesha. Mesha speaks of the angels as one would speak of a close friend. Recently Mesha called me on the phone as she often does. I asked her if she had seen Beniah lately.

"No," she replied. "She's on a 'time out' because she disobeyed God."

Wow! Could that be true? I really don't know. But I've learned that much of the Kingdom lies in the realm of mystery."

From the copyright date and other evidence in the book, I can safely say that this exchange took place about nine years ago.

Very recently, on Sunday 18 October 2015, the Lord sent this very same angel to my house. Of course everyone else was happy to see her. And angel Maiah made a special point of saying that they were real good friends.

Then the Lord asked me if I would be willing to accept her as part of our company. At first I wanted to give it a week, but before the day was over I had acquiesced to the rest of my family's desire. Maybe that makes me a push over. But I don't mind being that for my family. At least sometimes.

Angel Beniah started to explain to me why she got into trouble, and at one point I retorted the following to all who were listening:

“What am I? The “Teen Challenge” for Heaven or something?”

Beniah specializes in identifying and dealing with familiar spirits of various kinds. She also has an overabundance of Joy Omnipotent. This kind of Joy has the power to overwhelm and overcome familiar spirits.

It is this exuberance that got her into “trouble”. She just doesn't know when to quit. At least she didn't until she got to our house. I seem to have a calming effect on her. It must be my level of self-control or something.

But the first two days she was at the house she was bouncing off the walls, metaphorically speaking (which in angel terms would be actually speaking).

Beniah has been able to use her hyper-abilities to great effect at work. For some time before she showed up I had been wondering before the Lord, and complaining to angel Gabriel, on just how to deal with all the familiar spirits that come into the hospital. So, the Lord sent someone who likes to bounce off the walls, with tons of energy, to “strike the familiars” with the Joy of the Lord.

Sounds like a solution to me.

Blessings...
