

Letter 419
"My Sheep Hear My Voice"
2015-12-03

Dear Dan,

Tuesday 24 November 2015, 6AM.

Last night when I was having my pre-work smoke, the Lord led me to the realization that (L4) is the headquarters of a Prince of Deception, assigned to the Pacific Northwest, with specific orders to bring deception into the Church of the Pacific Northwest. This revelation came about from thoughts the Lord and I were sharing about the nature of many of the conversations I have had with (CB41), one of the Elders at (U3) Church. Please allow me to explain.

(CB41) and I started having regular discussions and dialogues by phone last June. These turned into a routine in that I would call him from work at about 9:30PM, and we would talk, pray, and review the Letters to Daniel. The phone calls would frequently last for up to two hours. We did this daily, Monday through Thursday. And I would also call him from home most Sunday evenings.

But the Monday through Thursday calls came to an end after four months on the day of our dinner meeting, 20 October, at the direct instruction of the Lord, who said that I was not to make any more daily calls to (CB41) from work. An exception came about when the Lord wanted he and I to pray for the Word that will come to pass at the end of this year (see Letter 414 Volume 5-15). We did this over the phone for four nights in a row.

The time we spent talking over the phone was a blessing to me, in that when (CB41) would read the Letters back to me, I would have a chance to process some of the memories associated with the Letter, and receive healing from the Lord. There was also deliverance for the Pacific Northwest at the same time (see Letter 380 Volume 5-15).

But from the outset of our talks I could tell there were more than a few things (CB41) believed that were a bit off. He would start telling me how he thought the Lord would grant him long life on the earth, up to a thousand years. And he now believes the Lord will make he and his wife younger, to the tune of becoming like they were in their twenties. And this is all supposed to happen now, in this present day, not in the resurrection. (CB41) is in his mid-sixties.

Now, I really wasn't put off too much by that, since hardly a month or two earlier I had a distinct Word from the Lord that He would restore 10 years of youth to me when I turn 60. And with all the personal miracles I receive daily, I thought that he might actually have a real Word from the Lord. But there was this check, the Berean in me demanding, "show me the Whole Council of God", concerning these matters. This is especially so since Scripture delineates the average post-flood lifespan of man to about 70 to 80 years (see Psalm 90:10).

It became clear over the course of just a few conversations that (CB41) practiced what is referred to in theological circles as EISEGESIS as opposed to EXEGESIS. I tried to explain to him the difference between eisegesis and exegesis, but in the end he just wanted to argue, rather than learn.

Here is an online definition of both:

eisegesis

[ahy-si-jee-sis]

Spell Syllables

Word Origin

noun, plural eisegesises [ahy-si-jee-seez] (Show IPA)

1. an interpretation, especially of Scripture, that expresses the interpreter's own ideas, bias, or the like, rather than the meaning of the text. (<http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/eisegesis>).

exegetics

/ˌɛksɪˈdʒiːsɪs/

noun (pl) -ses (-sɪz)

1.

explanation or critical interpretation of a text, esp of the Bible Compare eisegesis

Word Origin

C17: from Greek, from exēgeisthai to interpret, from ex- 1 + hēgeisthai to guide. (<http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/exegetics?s=t>)

(CB41) also seems to do what I call “sound-byte theology”, taking single quotations from the Bible, and making “new” or aberrant doctrines. I have come to think of this as “attempting to break Scripture with Scripture”. For example, he quotes the verse in 1st Peter that speaks of the Lord “not wanting any to perish”, and then says that, since this is “the heart of the Father”, we can pray an effectual prayer that all mankind will be saved, even after they go to hell (universalism). But he misses the fact that, in the same paragraph, those words are written by Peter to the “beloved”, not to the world. This is quite clear in the context (see 1 Peter 3:1-9). Peter is saying that the Lord is not wanting to have perish any of the “beloved” he is writing to.

He even thinks that we can “pray away” the future judgments listed in Revelation, saying things like “if enough people repent, the judgments won’t be necessary”*. I am even more troubled by this since (CB41) claims to have “private revelation” from God about certain things.

Another strange doctrine (CB41) believes has to do with the deaths of Ananias and Sapphira. He does not attribute their deaths to the Holy Spirit at all, but to Peter, saying that he misused his authority as an apostle, even though the text says nothing about Peter mis-speaking.

And then there’s the one where he has come to the conclusion that Scripture teaches that it was the pre-incarnate Son (Jesus) exclusively who created all of creation. Never mind that God is Elohim in the original text, a plural noun, or that the Spirit of God brooded over the face of the deep.

(CB41) obsesses over a few Scriptures, fixates on them, and then tries to get others to join him in this obsession. One of the first things (CB41) said to me when we started talking was a complaint about Pastor (CB5), that he wouldn’t join him in praying for the same thing every day. (CB41)’s goal was to get people to pray the same prayer with him three times a day.

I agreed to join (CB41) over the phone in the evenings because I knew that is what the Lord wanted. This gave me (us actually, including angel Gabriel) a relationship with (CB41) from which to minister prayers of Deliverance, Liberty, and Freedom later on.

An ironic thing too is that (CB41) (redacted). This may not mean anything, but if there was a place for a Prince of Deception to hide in plain sight and remain in (L4), I'd put my money on that church building.

Many years ago a phrase would come to my mind, and I would remember it often. Here it is:

“DECEPTION IS THE HALLMARK OF THE LAST DAYS**”.

Many years after I heard this phrase in my mind, I looked up the definition of the word “hallmark”. Here it is:

hallmark |'hɒl,mɑːrk|

a mark stamped on articles of gold, silver, or platinum in Britain, certifying their standard of purity.

- a distinctive feature, esp. one of excellence : the tiny bubbles are the hallmark of fine champagnes.

verb [ trans. ]

stamp with a hallmark.

- designate as distinctive, esp. for excellence.

ORIGIN early 18th cent. (as a noun): from Goldsmiths' Hall in London, England, where articles were tested and stamped with such a mark.

(MAC OSX Dashboard Dictionary)

So. Here is the mind-teaser. A hallmark is supposed to be a way to verify authenticity. If the hallmark therefore turns out to be a deceiving mark of deception, how then can one verify something as being authentic?

In my case, the Lord has brought me into relationship with angels who I have come to know very well, and who attest to the authenticity of Scripture. Before that I had what some call the witness of the Spirit. While I still have that, it is just easier for me to ask one of my angels about whatever, and I know I get the right answer all the time, every time.

I can also have a real-time conversations, individually, with our Father, His Son Jesus, and the Holy Spirit, and have an immediate response, knowing for fact certain that it is the One Whom I am addressing that is the One answering. This spiritual reality came into being about three months into the time I was having the phone conversations with (CB41). It is a direct result of walking (believing) in the truth of the Scripture where it says:

“My sheep hear My voice, and I know them, and they follow Me.”

John 10:27

I'll have more to say about this later.

Wednesday 2 December 2015, 6AM.

I have reason to believe that the Lord is becoming pro-active in delivering (CB41) from deception. I am being made aware of the Lord's move in this direction.

*I didn't blink at this one either. I told (CB41) that in the early days of my friendship with angel Gabe, he had sort of the same sentiment. But he didn't go as far as wanting to "break Scripture" to secure the salvation of all mankind. He was just saying he wished the judgments in Revelation didn't need to be so. Gabe of all people knows better than to come up with a doctrine of "breaking Scripture". He was the angel that brought the Revelation to John, after all.

** I heard this phrase long BEFORE I had any knowledge of who Harold Camping was.

"Camping predicted that Jesus Christ would return to Earth on May 21, 2011, whereupon the saved would be taken up to heaven in the rapture, and that there would follow five months of fire, brimstone and plagues on Earth, with millions of people dying each day, culminating on October 21, 2011, with the final destruction of the world.[7][8] He had previously predicted that Judgment Day would occur on or about September 6, 1994"). See "Harold Camping", Wikipedia.

Blessings...
