DREAM
Part 1- Dinner is Served.
Past 2- Subduing The Wicked.
Saving The Innocent.
2016-09-17

Dear Jesus,

Saturday, 17 September 2016, 8PM.

Tonight I woke up at 6:30PM, but fell back to sleep for an hour. Just before waking the second time I had a dream.

I DREAMED THAT:

PART 1- Dinner is Served.

I was in a restaurant helping to make the transition from the lunch menu to the dinner menu. This included turning the lights down a little to provide more of an evening ambience, and to set up the tables with some fancier chairs and place settings.

PART 2- Subduing The Wicked. Saving The Innocent.

The next thing I know, I am in a house with two women. One was attempting to kill the other. The killer had drugged the innocent woman, and was planning on stabbing her with a small kitchen knife that looked like a surgeons scalpel.

I grabbed the murderers hands and took the knife away from her, then proceeded to subdue her so she could not make any further attempts on the Innocent Woman's life.

END OF DREAM.

I woke up feeling pretty good spiritually in relative terms, but I was still very sore physically from my first work-night after not working for almost three months recovering from spine surgery. Yet I think having a stronger backbone made wrestling with the evil spirit much easier than in times past. In the dream the Wicked Woman offered virtually no resistance.

Blessings...
